

Patrick McMath Standard Bio

A fresh face in the Louisiana Senate, Senator Patrick McMath is already making an impact across the state and in the communities of Senate District 11. Currently serving as the Chairman of the Senate Committee on Transportation, Highway, and Public Works, McMath is leading the charge in addressing infrastructure needs throughout Louisiana.

From fixing highways, roads, and bridges to improving ports, levee districts, and water conservation districts, McMath is dedicated to ensuring that the state's transportation systems are repaired and revitalized for communities across the state.

In addition to his role as Chairman, McMath also serves on the Revenue and Fiscal Affairs Committee, the Health and Welfare Committee, the Judiciary B Committee, and the Water Sector Commission. With a focus on crucial areas such as infrastructure improvements, tax reform, public safety, and championing continued state investment in community service organizations, Senator McMath is committed to making a positive impact in District 11 through his work in the Louisiana Senate.

McMath is not only dedicated to his work in the Senate, but also to serving his community. He volunteers on the boards of several organizations, including the West Saint Tammany Chamber of Commerce, the Boys and Girls Club of Covington, and the Kelly Gibson Foundation, and is committed to leaving a stronger Louisiana for future generations.

A graduate of Louisiana State University, McMath earned his Bachelor of Arts in Political Science and went on to earn his Juris Doctorate from Loyola University New Orleans College of Law. Before entering politics, he served as an assistant district attorney in Louisiana's 22nd Judicial District Court.

Outside of his political and professional pursuits, McMath finds his greatest joy in his family life. He is proud to call himself a husband to his wife Jayne and a father to his four children, Mary Michael, Margaux, George, and Mae.

###

Patrick McMath Shorter Intro Bio

Senator Patrick McMath serves as Chairman of the Senate Committee on Transportation, Highway, and Public Works. With a focus on infrastructure improvements, tax reform, flooding mitigation, and public safety, McMath is committed to leaving a stronger Louisiana for future generations.

In addition to his work in the Senate, he is an active volunteer in his community, serving on several local organization boards.

McMath holds a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science from Louisiana State University and a Juris Doctorate from Loyola University New Orleans College of Law. He is also a proud husband to his wife Jayne and father to his four children.